King Harald Haarfagre Challenge Trophy, “Together we are better”

Statues

Inspired by King Harald Haarfagre, Rogaland Swimming District would like to acknowledge the fastest female and male team at North Sea Swim Meet. The trophy is awarded to inspire and focus on common goals, development and growth in their own team and clubs.

Statues are owned and managed by the Board of Rogaland Swimming District.

The Challenge Trophy is awarded to the winning female and male 4x100 freestyle team in the super final. In case of a tie, it is the best time in qualifying that will determine the winner. If there is still a tie, it is the best time in the first leg which determines the winner of the trophy.

King Harald Challenge Trophy can only be won by a qualified team in the super final at the annual North Sea Swim Meet, no matter where the swim meet takes place. Each winning team will get their team's name engraved on the trophy.

To inherit the trophy permanently, the same team must win the trophy three times during a decade

Harald Halfdansson (Old Norse: Haraldr Hálfðanarson; c. 850 – c. 932), better known as Harald Hårfagre (English: Harald Fairhair), was remembered by medieval historians as the first King of Norway. According to traditions current in Norway and Iceland in the twelfth and thirteenth centuries, he reigned from c. 872 to 930.

The unification of Norway is something of a love story. It begins with a marriage proposal that resulted in rejection and scorn from Gyda, the daughter of Eirik, king of Hordaland. She said she refused to marry Harald "before he was king over all of Norway". Harald was therefore induced to take a vow not to cut nor comb his hair until he was sole king of Norway, and when he was justified in trimming it ten years later, he exchanged the epithet "Shockhead" or "Tanglehair" (Haraldr lúfa) for the one by which he is usually known. In 866, Harald made the first of a series of conquests over the many petty kingdoms which would compose all of Norway, including Värmland county in Sweden, which had sworn allegiance to the Swedish king Erik Eymundsson. In 872, after a great victory at Hafrsfjord near Stavanger, Harald found himself king over the whole country.
